SAFEGUARDING CHILDREN & ADULTS

A THEMATIC REVIEW OF ADULT PRACTICE REVIEWS IN WALES

NATIONAL SAFEGUARDING WEEK 2025

Monday 10th November 2025

2:00pm - 4.00pm

Adult Practice Reviews (APRs) provide a vital opportunity to learn from cases where adults at risk have experienced significant harm or death, identifying systemic strengths and weaknesses within safeguarding practice. Commissioned by the National Independent Safeguarding Board (NISB) Wales, this 2025 thematic review analysed 25 APRs covering incidents in Wales from 2016–2022.

This webinar will share findings from the thematic review and explore the implications for policy and practice in Wales.

Featuring guest speaker Professor Michelle McManus

This review has been led by Michelle McManus, who is a Professor of Safeguarding and Violence Prevention at Manchester Metropolitan University. She has led major national and international research on safeguarding, exploitation, and violence reduction, working closely with government, police, and safeguarding boards to influence policy and practice. Her work strongly advocates for stronger policy action in areas that include workforce development and embedding the voices of adults at risk within safeguarding work and practice.

Target Audience: Social Workers, Social Work Managers, Police Officers, Health Professionals, District Nurses, CPN's, OT's, Commissioning Managers, Care and Nursing Home Managers, Fire & Rescue Officers & Relevant Third Sector Organisations
